After graduating from La Cambre in Brussels, Theo worked for three years in a luxury woodwork company where he developed strong skills of project management and team leading.

Since he joined BLOOM, Théo used his past experience on designing large offices for international companies to work on the interior design for Heineken's Headquarters in Phnom Penh. His versatility has enabled him to work on different types of projects, from design to completion, and more recently such as a luxury modern villa along the Mekong and the renovation of the Pasteur Institute situated on Monivong boulevard.
